Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Forecast until 8 p. m. Wednesday: For Kansas—Local thunder storms tonight; probably fair Wednesday; variable winds; warmer Wednesday evening in western portion.

DEPUTY is getting to be almost as opprobrious an epithet as Democrat.

IN this sympathy strike will some one turn the magnifying glass on the sympathy given Pullman?

THE Blue Island deputies will be asking for pensions because they lost their arms in the service.

IT appears that when the Republican league of Denver "bowed with sorrow," they knew just what the case demanded.

MR. DEBS does not seem to have had any acquaintance with that old moral: "Don't set anything in motion that you can't stop."

THE great strike is apt to end in a mere personal quarrel between Debs and Cleveland as to which of them owns this country.

REED and McKinley may as well give up, Sherman is the man, standing firmly on the platform "Tipping Pullman employees should be discontinued."

CLEVELAND didn't know there was a strike in progress until a little while ago. He didn't see how they could have the effrontery to strike without asking him.

BILL HACKNEY pleads with "Dick" like a love lost lass with a recalcitrant lover, but Dick has gone off with Miss Congressman-at-large and heedeth him not.

THE Populists have had three genuine conversions before the Republicans have even got the mourner's bench in place. Isn't it about time for them to open the meeting?

THE number of labor unions with long initial names that has been developed by the strike is so great that newspapers will have to give an interpreter with every paper.

DARTMOUTH has just celebrated its one hundred and twenty-fifth centennial, says the Boston Transcript. The same paper would probably have referred to the illiterate and rowdy west.

MR. WILSON announces his intention to fight the senate bill. The country didn't think any too much of the Wilson bill, but since seeing the senate bill is apt to turn to it as an unmitigated blessing.

THE eastern dispatches speak of the ships that have encountered icebergs in the light of disasters, but it is difficult for any one who has experienced this weather to view it in any other light than a blessing.

IF Editor Singler should be elected governor, it would be an extraordinary achievement, but it would not lower the Record, says the Kansas City Journal. Perhaps not, but following the analogy of all other editors leaving their papers to go into politics, it would break the Record.

THE Fourth of July has for some time, in some places, been observed in a perfunctory sort of a way, but if the senate will actually dispose of the tariff bill today, as it was said it would, the people of the country will throw themselves into the celebration tomorrow with the most energetic enthusiasm.

GOVERNOR LEWELLING's bait in the shape of his Pullman circular seems to have been eagerly gobbled in by the railroad men. If the men at Argentine who so heartily endorsed Lewelling knew how little he cared for them except for his own advancement it would be a revelation to their trusting, credulous natures.

THE Wine and Spirit Gazette, the organ of the National Liquor Dealers' association, intimates that it might become necessary to organize a political party composed of liquor dealers and liquor drinkers as a protection of the encroachments of the Prohibition party. The Gazette says their forces are now too much divided between Democrats and Republicans to be effective against the insidious attacks of the enemy of personal liberty.

THREE PARTIES ENDORSE IT.

Within the month just past the state conventions of three distinct political organizations in as many different states, widely separated geographically, have placed in their platforms a demand for the free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. No one doubted that the Populists of Kansas would take this position, but since they have been followed by the Republicans of California and more recently by the Democrats of Michigan, it looks as if the people of the country were about to take up this matter regardless of party. The silver plank in the platform of the Michigan Democracy is as follows, and incidentally levels a blow at the national banks:

"We declare in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio that will permit the debtors to pay their debts upon the same basis on which they were contracted. We demand that henceforth the issuing of all circulating medium be made under the acts of congress, through the national treasury, in such amounts as the business wants of the country may require, and it shall be full legal tender."

Partisan bias and prejudice may keep the friends of silver apart at the approaching elections, but there is good reason to believe that it will not keep them apart in the next congress. A large majority of the people of the United States are demanding the restoration of silver to its former place in the currency of the country and they are going to have it. The action of the three conventions alluded to indicates that the men who make platforms for political parties are beginning to recognize this fact. President Cleveland will perhaps be the last person to find it out.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Items of Interest About Topeka People and Visitors in Town.

Quite the prettiest as well as the largest party of the summer season was that given by Miss Florence Greer in honor of Miss Anna Street of Phoenix, Ariz., and Miss Abbie Ware, at Labary hall last evening.

The details of the affair were charming indeed, and continued to make a whole from which nothing was lacking.

The music, flowers, pretty girls in becoming frocks were equally admired; and the young men gazed at them in admiration.

A large screen of palms and ferns across the front of the stage effectively concealed the small tables from which the refreshments were served, and bowls of sweet peas, and carnations, and the big yellow blossoms of the alameda vine used convenient nooks and corners.

Fruits and rugs were disposed effectively on the tables, and the place was near the door was lined with ice cream.

The young ladies received their guests in a prettily arranged corner, with a background of palms and ferns, and a rug. Miss Greer wore a gown of pale blue silk with yoke of valencienne lace, and a pink tie. Miss Ware wore a gown of pale blue silk with yoke of valencienne lace, and a pink tie. Miss Street wore a gown of pale blue silk with yoke of valencienne lace, and a pink tie.

There were a number of other guests, including Misses Grace Foulke, Myrtle Davis, Lillian Whitlock, Edna Carpenter, Mabel Quigley, Elsie Moon, Gracie Packard, Nellie Small, Mabel Chase, Edna Crane, and Messrs. Dave Harvey, Clarence Horton, Clyde Grubbs, Ransie Bennett, Charles Keeler, Tom Clements, Will Wadsworth, Howard Wood, George Kilmer, Arthur Van Vleet, and Oscar Woolverton.

Dancing at Vinewood.

The following young ladies will give a dancing party at Vinewood Friday evening for the Misses Hamilton's guests, Misses Palmer and Chandler, and Messrs. Hall and Kuntz of Omaha.

Misses Margaret Dudley, Ruth Farnsworth, Margaret Bradley, Blanche Dionst, Daisy Lakin, Mame and Rosamond Horton, Lulu Manspeaker, Edna Best, Edith Isbell, Annie Jones, Ellen Vail, Myra Williams, Clemmie Linn, Gussie Fuller, Florence Greer, and May Short.

Minor Social Mention.

The Primus Locus club held its fifth regular meeting at the home of Miss Lulu Green, 1814 West Tenth street last evening. Games on the lawn and vocal and instrumental music were enjoyed, and the club will meet next time at the home of Miss Bertie Brown, on Euclid avenue.

Mrs. M. Wrightman, Jr., entertained about twenty-five guests last evening, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Holcombe.

Miss Nellie Jenkins of Pittsburg, Kan., is the guest of Miss Jessie Gipton.

Mrs. A. S. Johnson and Mrs. M. Bosworth will leave Thursday for New Hampshire, to spend several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. E. Chandler returned yesterday from Baldwin and expect to leave Monday for Middleton, Mass.

SMOKE ROW RAIDED.

Fifteen Women Arrested—Seems Like Chicago's Famous Vice Act.

The police went down on Smoke row last night like a charge of the light brigade, and then came back again bearing their prisoners of war with them. The prisoners were ten colored women, five white women and four men. The police gathered in one disorderly just after another, and none but the most clever could escape.

There was Nora Kline and Lill Tack, and Cora Barnes and Della Taylor, all on the accustomed charge, that of keeping resorts which the crusade committee would not care to enter. They are the most notorious of their kind in town. They will be tried tomorrow.

The other women who were arrested are charged with street walking. Mrs. Kitchen was the only white one in the crowd. The rest were colored, and the same old offenders, a part of whom were arrested twice last week. They are Fannie Brown, Mary Vale, Etta Bradford, Carrie Jordan, Fannie Preston, Mary Marshall, Josie Johnson, Henrietta Powell, Sarah Cormack and Ada Burch. They were gathered up on the street corners, in the alleys and along the highways and hedges. A part of them said they were guilty and some said they were not. Those who entered the later plea were quickly convinced that they erred in their judgment, and were fined $10 just the same.

A delegate to the Democratic state convention who was found under a bed at Nora Kline's, was fined $3 and told to sin no more. F. Stenman, an inmate at Cora Barnes' place, hasn't been tried yet. E. A. Bennett and F. R. Williamson will be tried later.

MILAN'S GREAT SHOW

IT IS IN EVERY WAY WORTHY OF THAT BEAUTIFUL CITY.

A Castle Dating From the Fifteenth Century Is Used as One of the Most Important Buildings—Hasty Review of Some of the Most Notable Features.

According to all accounts, the exposition now going on at Milan is one of the most successful of the year, judged both from the quality of the show itself and the attendance of visitors.

The exposition grounds are to the north of the city, centering in the historic old castle of the Sforza-Visconti, a structure that has had a prominent place in Milanese records ever since the fifteenth century. The scheme for the present exposition was broached in the public journals as early as March, 1893, and although last year was one of depression in Italy and indeed in all Europe as well as in America, the Milanese took hold of the matter at once and with enthusiasm, and by the beginning of 1894 it was well understood by the people of the entire country that Milan was not only in earnest, but quite competent to organize and carry through to a successful termination a fair that would combine transient interest with permanent benefit both to Milan and indirectly to her sister cities.

Not only is the exposition fortunate in being allowed the use of the castle and its grounds, but the president of the executive committee, who has had charge directly of the work of construction and arrangement, is the Prince Gian Giacomo Trivulzio, a scion of a noble Milanese family, a brave soldier, a polished gentleman, an accomplished scholar and above all a practical man of affairs. The grounds about the castle are spacious and beautiful and crossed by a network of noble avenues—they call them vias in Milan—and the whole space has been decorated in the gayest, most attractive manner possible. Especially bright was the appearance of the grounds on the opening day, which was graced by the presence of the king and queen themselves, Premier Crispi and many other Italian dignitaries.

The central buildings are described as very beautiful. They were designed by Cavaliere Giuseppe Sommaruga, an eminent Milanese architect. Other important buildings are the Pompeian theater, the Sports building, many cafes, restaurants, etc. One of the most important departments of the entire show is that devoted to the "opera," or working class. The experiments that have been made in the direction of cooperative labor in Milan have been elaborate and so successful as to attract the attention of students and economists from all over Europe. With full consideration of the facts the directors of the exposition have given this department more space than any other, and they have been rewarded for their sagacity by the absorbing interest that has been bestowed thereon by the visitors.

The horticultural section has been arranged in such a manner as to display a constant succession of exquisite blooms, possibly the palms and orchids being the most attractive features. The photographic section is also highly interesting. One is bewildered, however, in trying to decide which he shall admire most—the artistic or the scientific features. In printing, too, there are many most interesting devices shown, and one of these makes it possible, so it is reported, to print any number of colors at one impression. The new process is called sincromia, and it is asserted that as many copies of a plate with 100 colors may be made in one day by this method as may be turned off by the old method of a picture of five colors in a week. Besides there are not the same opportunities for misprinting, owing, of course, to the use of but one plate in the new process, as by the old, in which as many plates are required as there are colors to be shown.

The musical section, located in the Pompeian theater, is also a most interesting one. It abounds in manuscript and autographic scores by the most eminent Italian composers, and likewise in a marvelous variety of operatic costumes. The department of fine arts is one to draw out the most enthusiastic admiration of picture lovers and those who delight in sculpture. There are 2,000 pictures in all and a bewildering variety of examples of the plastic art. The departments devoted to telegraphy and photography, too, are worthy of special mention, the exhibits being of intense interest alike to the professional, the amateur and the layman.

Among the structures the splendid arch of peace is a marvel of artistic beauty. In fact, the exposition of Milan, taken altogether or considered in parts, quite merits the extensive patronage that is being bestowed upon it.

John Adams' Idea.

Of the day on which our independence was declared John Adams said: "It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be celebrated with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore."

Chicago Women and the Suffrage.

The Chicago Woman's club has added a woman suffrage section to its other departments.
